Planning, sewer-plant grants go to the voters

Bethel voters will decide Monday if the town will accept grants to help update the comprehensive plan and upgrade the wastewater treatment plant. They will also decide if the town will pay for a streetlight at the intersection of the Parkway and Route 2, and formally accept Lincoln Street as a town road.

The vote, by secret ballot, will take place at Crescent Park School from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Absentee ballots are available in the Town Office.

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The hot-button item on Monday's warrant is Article 3: a vote on whether the town will accept a state grant of up to $18,355 to help the town update its comprehensive plan.

If the grant is accepted, the town would be required to contribute up to $6,118 for the updating work. That work would involve hiring a

The big-ticket item on Monday's warrant is Article 1: a vote on whether to go ahead with the upgrade of the town's wastewater treatment plant.

The upgrade would increase the capacity of the plant (along with its reliability) enough to meet Bethel's projected needs through the year 2015.

Town-manager vacancies have selectmen scrambling

M. Henley headed for new job in North Carolina

By MICHAEL DANIELS

After almost six years in Bethel, Madeline Henley thinks it's time to move on.

Henley, who has served as town manager since 1990 and was named Maine Town Manager of the Year in 1995, announced her resignation last Wednesday. It takes effect Jan. 1.

She and her husband, David Williams, will move to North Carolina, where she has accepted a position as director of general services for Guilford County.

Working from offices in Greensboro and High Point, Henley will be responsible for overseeing a staff of more than 80 people, an operational budget of $10 million a year and a yearly capital-improvement budget of $13 million.

Her resignation did not catch the Bethel Board of Selectmen entirely off guard.

Henley had quietly told a number of people recently that she was ready for the next step in her career.

"It didn't come as a surprise," said chairman Bob Chadbourne. "We knew she would be leaving."

The board, however, must now deal both with selecting a new town manager and with finding someone to fill in until a permanent successor for Henley is found.

At a special meeting Monday the board voted to use the services of the Maine Municipal Association in the search for a new manager.

It could be a lengthy process. Henley said the MMA recommends that the search not be started until after the holidays. The board should expect it to take from 10 to 12 weeks before a new manager is actually hired, she said.

Selectman Rick Whitney questioned both the length of time projected for the search and the need for an interim manager.

But the other selectmen seemed resigned to both. "I personally would favor taking the time to get the best candidate we could," Chadbourne said. "If we make a bad hire and have to work our way through that process it could be much worse."

Dutch Dresser agreed. "To find someone to do this job -- which requires a lot of diverse skills -- it's going to take a while," he said.

MMA charges $3,000 for its search services, which is far less than commercial headhunters. The fee, Dresser said, "doesn't look too bad to me."

The board concluded its meeting Monday with an executive session to discuss possible candidates to serve as an interim manager.

Chadbourne said later it was the consensus of the board that an interim replacement would be needed.

Greenwood town manager has officially resigned

By ALISON ALOISIO

Elizabeth Lavolette, facing larceny charges in Massachusetts, has officially resigned as Greenwood's town manager.

Lavolette's husband delivered a letter of resignation to the Town Office Thursday, selectman Harry Swan said.

The letter, according to Swan, said Lavolette was committing her resignation with regret. She thanked the selectmen for the job opportunity.

but said that in light of current circumstances, she believed her resignation was the best solution for the selectmen, "which we can understand," said Swan.

Lavolette was previously town clerk, treasurer and secretary to the selectmen of West Stockbridge, Mass. She was reportedly asked to resign in early March after an audit revealed money missing from town accounts.

Lavolette became Greenwood's first town manager in April. She was indicted last Monday on multiple charges of larceny in connection with her West Stockbridge employment.

On Wednesday selectmen chair Marie Bartlett said Lavolette was "voluntarily staying home" from her job, with full salary. The resignation followed on Thursday.

What's next?
Town officials have responded to the Lavolette situation by taking several steps.

An audit of town finances is now underway, according to Swan. The town routinely has an audit done in January.

In order to cover some of Lavolette's duties, Deputy Town Clerk Penny Bedard is now working extra hours and West Paris Town Clerk Diane Stimson is ex-

Now USPS changes its mind on site for new Newry P.O.

By ALISON ALOISIO

First the United States Postal Service wanted to expand the current post office on the Bear River side of Newry.

Then public pressure in Bethel led the USPS to drop plans for a much enlarged Bethel post office in Bethel Station.

Then the USPS changed its mind about the Newry post office, deciding that it should be new, larger and moved to the Sunday River side of town.

Any connection among these events? Postal officials seem to be sending mixed messages, but real estate specialist Terry Brooks of the USPS acknowledges that a larger office in Newry would give the USPS more options regarding mail facilities in the area.

In July Tom Bonica, landlord of the current Newry Post Office, agreed to a letter a long time to expand the office from 100 to 600 square feet. The office would take on responsibility for additional Newry residents currently getting their mail out of Bethel.

He planned to get estimates from contractors for the work. But then last week he read in the newspaper that the Postal Service is seeking to lease space for a new 2,000-square-foot office, likely to be located on the Sunday River Road.

He contacted Brooks and was told the situation had changed. Bonica said. He said Brooks told him the town's selectmen believed building

Jumpers, X-C skiers hoping to lure youngsters to the sports

By ALISON ALOISIO

Cross-country skiing and ski jumping have generally taken a back seat to alpine skiing among Bethel area youngsters. Now, skiers and coaches at Gould Academy and Telstar High School are hoping to change that.

Both school's cross-country teams will lend a hand in teaching elementary-age kids to ski, according to Gould spokesman Scott Jerome.

Jerome, who is also an assistant cross-country coach, is hopeful the extra support in after-school skiing will increase -- and sustain -- the youngsters' interest in cross-country.

"Interest in alpine and freestyle skiing (among kids) has really taken off. We'd like to see the same thing happen with cross-country," he said.

The young cross-country skiers will have the use of the Bethel Inn trails for their after-school program, said Jerome. The program will be offered to all SAD44 elementary students. Telstar coach Bob Remington and his team will also be helping out.

Gould coaches are also encouraging area youngsters to give ski jumping a try.

The school has just finished reconstruction of two small jumps at the school's facility on the Sunday River Road. A larger, nearby jump has been used by the school regularly. All three jumps will be illuminated for night jumping, Jerome said.

"We'd like to bring middle school and elementary kids into jumping," he said.

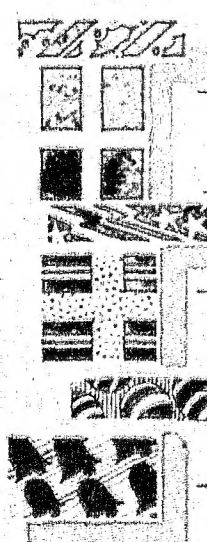

That project is still in the planning stages. Anyone interested in more

VOLUNTEERS NEED SUPPORT

To the Editor:

The volunteer drafters of the 1986 Bethel Comprehensive Plan knew well the inevitability of change and the importance of flexibility in the planning process. Dominant among their concerns was anticipation of, rather than reaction to, change.

For three years the current volunteer Bethel Comprehensive Plan Committee has struggled to effect necessary change and updating of that plan. The committee now needs professional help.

In a recent Bethel Citizen article Don Feeney, former chairman of the planning committee, acknowledged the need for such help. Having voted against the grant in 1993, Feeney was quoted as saying "... changes have occurred since the first time around, when I was against the grant, such as Bethel Station. Volunteer help can't complete it now."

On Dec. 16, Referendum Question No. 3 will give us the opportunity to accept -- by secret ballot -- a planning grant from the State of Maine that will supply the professional help the committee requests.

I hope that voters will vote yes on Question 3.

Frank A. Vogt
Member, Bethel Planning Board

CURRENT PLAN IS USELESS

To the Editor:

I urge voters to vote yes on Monday, Dec. 16, for the grant money, so that the volunteer Comprehensive Plan Committee will be able to finish Bethel's comprehensive plan on schedule.

The committee is in need of professional help in gathering and compiling information, and it is vital that this be completed as soon as possible.

The Planning Board is governed by this plan, and at present the 1986 Comprehensive Plan may as well be dated 1886.

Just look at how Bethel has changed in the last 10 years. This may give voters an idea why this grant money is needed.

I urge anyone interested in this future plan for Bethel to come join us.

Suzi Harrington
Member, Comprehensive Plan Committee

DEFEAT IT AGAIN

To the Editor:

On Monday, Dec. 16, Bethel voters will have the opportunity to go to the polls to vote on several issues of local importance.

One of the issues we will be voting on is whether the town ought to accept a state hand-out to complete our local comprehensive plan. Approximately two years ago, we voted on this same item and it was soundly defeated and there are many good reasons why it should be defeated again.

The state will attach certain conditions to the acceptance of this grant, such as the requirement that the comprehensive plan include some form of zoning. If you doubt that there will be strings attached keep in mind the old adage, "I'm from the government and I'm here to help."

It also seems odd to me that almost daily we read in newspapers about budgetary problems the state is facing yet here they are begging us to take their money for this purpose. This hardly seems like fiscal responsibility. Wouldn't it be better if the state used this money they are trying so hard to give away to reduce the projected shortfall in the years ahead?

I hope that Bethel residents will see fit to preserve our sovereignty and independence and vote no on article 4.

Rick Whitney
Bethel

VOTE YES, TO PRESERVE BETHEL

To the Editor:

On December 16 you will be asked to vote by referendum ballot whether or not to accept a grant from the state to complete the comprehensive plan. In 1993 we as a town voted no on this very same offer. In fact I was one who opposed accepting the grant.

As a member of the Planning Board I have been aware of the work that has been done by the present Comprehensive Plan Committee, which has produced significant results. However, they are now at the point where they need professional help to finish the task.

The comprehensive plan is a valuable planning tool for the town. Public input will be sought on every detail in the process in order to make it your plan. The result will be a guide to the future to insure Bethel remains the Bethel as we know it. I urge voters to vote yes to accept this grant.

Reggie Brown
Chairman, Bethel Planning Board

PLAN IMPORTANT TO OUR FUTURE

To the Editor:

I would urge voters to vote for the comprehensive plan grant on Dec. 16.

A very hard-working volunteer committee has worked for three years and now needs professional help to complete the task. This grant would pay for that.

The comprehensive plan is important to the future of Bethel.

FIREFIGHTERS SAVE BETHEL HOUSE—Fire departments from three towns responded to this barn fire on High St. in Bethel Sunday evening, and their quick action prevented the attached house from being destroyed. Bethel, Greenwood and Newry fire departments fought the blaze at the property owned by Ruth Grover. Bethel Fire Chief Jim Young said Tuesday there is some question whether the fire could be of suspicious origin. He has been speaking with Grover's insurance company, which would have the say on whether the state Fire Marshal's office becomes involved. Young said there is no electricity in the barn. The fire was reported about 5 p.m. by someone coming out of the Bethel Foodliner. The house was rented out to skiers, but no one was home at the time, Young said. Most of the house sustained smoke damage, and part of it had some water damage. Here, firefighters work on the roof of the barn from Newry's ladder truck.

ANIMAL CONTROL OFFICER: GET PETS VACCINATED

To the Editor:

I would like to respond to the Woodstock rabies story. I was notified of the lingering fox in the Perkins Valley Road area the morning after the fox grabbed the puppy. A large dog trap was immediately set up at the Poland property in hopes to lure the fox to captivity. According to officials at the Town Office, hunters were up at dawn, combing the woods in search of the fox.

In defense of the statement that the call went unanswered, I'd like to say that when a call comes in to any level of authority that a fox has simply been spotted, you are very likely to receive a casual response. The Perkins Valley area is a heavily wooded area where hunting takes place and wildlife flourishes, fox included. I realize the seriousness of rabies as much as anyone, but I also understand the behavior and habits of the animals, as do the game wardens. About a quarter mile from the Poland residence is a residence that has what every fox dreams of, a barnyard full of loose chickens, sheep, dogs, cats and horses. It is also common behavior for a fox to grab a domestic house cat and, unfortunately, a tiny puppy. The woman hanging clothes, unfortunately, was located between the two.

During my investigation I found at least four dogs, several cats and other animals who had never received any rabies vaccinations. In my opinion the first fingers to point should be at those not taking advantage of precautionary measures and not authorities.

Those wondering what protection they have against rabies? The answer begins at home. With the exception of kittens and puppies such as Lady, country animals, especially those kept outdoors without rabies vaccination protection is nonexistent.

I highly disagree with Warden Lewis' statement saying "people should feel free to dispose of suspicious animals." Most people do not understand suspicious rabies behavior. I do not want everyone target practicing on fox and raccoons. Game wardens have a list of Animal Damage Control Officers (A.D.C.O.) who trap, evaluate, and relocate or dispose of wild animals. If a resident sees wildlife in their area and feels uncomfortable they should contact the A.D.C.O. for their area to start the process of live trapping and relocating the animal. They are well trained and know the regulations on relocating. Some towns pick up the tab for this service while some may feel it's up to the resident to cover the cost, but which arrangement, it is a good service and no one seems to know about it.

I would also warn against the burying of any suspect animals found or shot by residents. It is believed that a rabid animal who is buried and later dug up by another animal may still carry the live rabies virus in their system, due to the cold, damp ground conditions which may keep the virus alive for several days. This can in turn be spread to the animal making contact, thus continuing the spread of rabies. Cremation is recommended and most towns cover this service as part of their animal control services.

I also do animal control for Rumford. I am organizing a rabies clinic on Saturday, Dec. 14, at the Rumford Police Station from 1 to 3 p.m. and strongly urge anyone from any town with unvaccinated dogs or cats to attend. The cost is $8, and half of that money goes toward the Maine Veterinarian Medical Association spay-neuter program. Santa will also be there, and I am offering free pet photos with Santa, with every proof of an up-to-date rabies vaccination.

This is where everyone can start protecting themselves and their families against rabies.

'SMOKE AND WHEELS' UNVEILING

To the Editor:

On Monday, Dec. 16, the dedication of Bethel's second Percent for Art project will take place at 5:30 p.m. at the Bethel Train Station. Artist Roger Majorowicz will be there to unveil his sculpture entitled "Smoke and Wheels."

The Percent for Art program was established by the Maine State Legislature to provide funds for the acquisition of works of art to enhance public spaces in newly constructed or renovated state-funded buildings. Projects are administered and overseen by the Maine Arts Commission. Each Percent for Art project has an art selection committee that chooses the artists and/or art works. Maine Arts Commission staff member, Paul Faria, has been working closely with the art selection committee throughout the process.

The committee consists of Pat Thurston, Arla Patch, Vicki Rackliffe and Kim King, representing the Department of Transportation, the contracting agent for this particular artwork commission.

The dedication is the culmination and celebration of months of work by the art selection committee and the artist. The public is invited and encouraged to attend the unveiling and meet Mr. Majorowicz.

THIS WEEK AT THE
Moses Mason House

Nearly 100 persons attended some part of the Bethel Historical Society's annual "Christmas with the Masons" on Dec. 5 at the Dr. Moses Mason House. The museum was decorated with bows, berries and fruit, much as it would have been in the early 19th century. In the candlelight and fireplace glow, members and visitors alike munched on Christmas cookies and sipped hot mulled cider served from the hearth of the winter kitchen. Christmas music was provided by the Mahoosuc Music Makers and Edna York at the piano.

This portion of the evening was followed by the business meeting and program where a slide presentation, titled "Lost Bethel," by Society Director Stanley R. Howe and Curator of Collections Randall Bennett, completed the schedule of Bethel programs for the bicentennial year. A number of losses were noted from fire, neglect, unsympathetic alteration and deliberate destruction in regard to buildings. Vistas have also been lost by building placement and the growth of forests which have taken over farmland and open spaces.

Bethel has 136 blue signs

BETHEL--Bethel has more MDOT blue business signs along its roadways than any other municipality in the Maine Department of Transportation's District 7, according to engineer Bill Stowell. That includes Lewiston, Auburn, Rumford, Wilton, Farmington, Norway, Paris and Oxford, he said. The Bethel signs number 136, compared to 115 in Auburn and 92 in Lewiston. The town of Carrabassett Valley, where Sugarloaf/USA is located, has no blue signs. Town clerk Mary Kilburn, contacted Friday, said, "No one has ever requested them. There are no side streets with businesses -- all the businesses are right along Route 27."

Water District to pursue land purchase

ANDOVER--The Andover Water District will pursue purchasing one of two properties on which to develop a drinking water supply. Trustees last week voted to reopen discussion with Susan Ricker and John Fox regarding their land parcels. Both properties had been considered previously, but both deals fell through. The Environmental Protection Agency several years ago ordered the district to comply with the federal Safe Drinking Water Act. The Stoney Brook Reservoir currently supplies water for users.

Water testing info available

ANDOVER--People interested in having their water tested for lead may contact Kelly Scotti, Andover Water District, at 392-1681. Information is also available regarding simple ways to reduce exposure to lead in drinking water.

NOVA looks for new sites

RUMFORD--Three new sites are being considered for housing at least part of the Northern Oxford Vocational Area classes. They include the former Stephens High School, the former Swift River medical facility and three vacant storefronts in the Abbott Farm Plaza. The NOVA Facilities Committee is researching the options, and is also looking for other potential sites. A proposed $6-million NOVA addition to Mountain Valley High School was turned down by voters last month. NOVA programs are currently scattered among several locations in the Rumford area.

Historic hotel a success

BRETTON WOODS, N.H.--The historic Mt. Washington Hotel is turning a profit for the local partnership that bought it five years ago, according to a report in the New Hampshire Business Review. The partners credit using existing resources and listening to their staff for their success in upgrading the hotel and its services. There has been no downsizing of staff since the purchase at a Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. auction in 1991. The hotel is currently undergoing winterization.

McLaughlin garden open house

PARIS--The McLaughlin Garden Preservation Committee will host a holiday open house at the McLaughlin estate Dec. 14 and 15, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day. The event is free and has been organized as a way to say goodbye to the property. The group has been unable to raise enough money to buy the estate of Bernard McLaughlin. The property has been the site of a world-renowned lilac garden for 60 years, but must now be sold to comply with the direction of McLaughlin's will. McLaughlin died last year. Group spokesman Walter Bresette said the members believe the property will be sold for development. Many of the plants from the garden have been transplanted to property leased in Greenwood by McLaughlin's son, Richard.

State park gift ideas

AUGUSTA--1997 Maine State Park passes, camping gift certificates and loon T-shirts and tote bags are available for purchase from the Maine Department of Conservation's Bureau of Parks and Lands. Park passes permit unlimited picnicking, swimming, hiking and other outdoor activities at more than 30 Maine state parks and historic sites. Camping gift certificates entitle the recipient to camp at any one of the 12 state parks that offer camping sites. A percentage of each loon T-shirt and tote bag sale helps maintain state parks and protect endangered wildlife, and are available at the Harlow Building on Hospital St. in Augusta. Call 207-287-2209 regarding passes and certificates.

Shelters deal with dumped pets

SKOWHEGAN--If it's late fall, it's probably time for the annual flood of unwanted pets who are dropped off at animal shelters across Maine. "People get animals in the spring. It's easy to housebreak them and take care of them," said Bob Curtis, who runs the Pittsfield Animal Shelter. "By fall, they don't want them anymore, so they drop them off." Many owners no longer feel like caring for pets when it comes time to keep them inside over the winter, shelter directors say. In areas heavy with vacationers, shelters see an influx of unwanted pets as the summer season winds down. "It almost seems like people get summer pets," said Paul Mitchell, manager of the Humane Society of the Waterville Area. Dropping a pet off at a shelter under cover of darkness on a cold night can be fatal for the animal. Kittens and puppies can freeze to death, and workers say they sometimes have to thaw the bodies before they can dispose of them. But because of space limitations, euthanasia is often the end for many of the pets that are dropped off. The Skowhegan shelter last year took in 369 dogs and 469 cats. Of those, 41 dogs and 250 cats were put to sleep. Hattie Meng, director of the Somerset County Humane Society, said taking the animals to the veterinarian's office to be euthanized is a job no one looks forward to. "It's that long, long, lonely drive," she said.

Ski industry looks at demographics

LAKEWOOD, Colo.--As evening falls on the baby boomer era, the ski industry is looking to demographics to pump up its flat skier-day numbers in the future. Prime targets, according to Brad Edmondson, editor of American Demographics Magazine, are children, women and ethnic minorities. "The next five years are critical," said Edmondson. "They will be the last years when you can rely on baby boomers as your core market." Baby boomers started turning 50 this year. Boomers, people born between 1946 and 1964, are 78 million strong. Their immediate replacements -- Generation X, ages 20 to 31 -- have only 45 million members. The Echo Boom, children of the baby boomers, who are ages newborn through 19, boast a population of 78 million. Since 1981, the overall skier-visit figure has been stable at about 50 million visits a year, according to American Demographics. During that time, snowboarding has grown nationally, now claiming about 8 percent of those visits. "So if you think of snowboarding as a separate sport, and many do, alpine skiing is already on the decline," Edmondson said.

Waste not, want not

Ora Bolden's recipe for barbecued raccoon:

Skin and clean the animal.

Cut the meat into pieces.

Soak it in vinegar salt water "all the day."

Take it out of the pot and wash it.

Boil it in vinegar and wash it again.

Boil it again, adding seasonings: onions, vinegar, red pepper, salt, garlic, diced celery and bell peppers, a little cooking oil. "You just guess how much to use," she said. "I don't use measurements."

Cook until tender.

Put it on the grill and add barbecue sauce to your liking.

Mrs. Bolden says another option is to bake the raccoon in the oven, placing sweet potatoes around it.

Sorry, wrong number

Correction: The Maine House of Representatives last week released an incorrect phone number for information regarding the property tax relief program. The number appeared in the "Briefly" section of the Citizen. The number to call is 1-207-287-1430.

From the Bethel Police log:

Rabid fox on Intervale Rd. bites dog

At 5 p.m. on Dec. 4 a Rumford Center resident reported that a dog was attacked by a fox with rabies Dec. 3 on the Intervale Rd. The test came back on the 4th that the fox was in fact infected. The dog was quarantined and proper instructions given to the owner. Authorities planned to check back with the owner to ensure compliance.

Thursday, Dec. 5

At 9:30 a.m. police were requested to pick up some items at Telstar High School. The officer spoke with an administrator, who had a student in his office. The administrator handed the student a backpack and asked him to show the officer what was in a small stuffed animal. The officer took the stuffed animal and the contents for testing. The administrator asked the student what it was, and he stated he did not know. He said it was not his.

Saturday, Dec. 7

At 1:02 a.m. a Bethel resident reported her son and two other boys were assaulted while drinking liquor at a Route 26 residence. Police went to the subjects' residence and spoke with three male juveniles. All appeared to be somewhat intoxicated and appeared to not really care. The officer requested they complete statement forms. He advised them and their parents he would speak with the two suspects at their residence, but the juveniles would have to complete another form when they were sober. He said the statements they had completed were not satisfactory. The suspects were not at their residence, and the officer was told they had just left. The officer left word for them to contact police.

Sunday, Dec. 8

At 9:30 a.m. police were called to the intersection of Route 2 and the Sunday River Rd. for a motor vehicle accident. The officer located the vehicle over the embankment on the Sunday River Rd. The driver said the vehicle was undamaged. Although the driver denied it, it was apparent he had tried to enter the Sunday River Rd. from the left of the traffic island to avoid slower traffic -- a common practice when traffic into the ski area is heavy.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

The staff at the Town Office has received many thumbs up from folks who have noticed the new street signs around town. We have been told by a certain alien, as she called herself, that even she can get around town now. I would like to take this opportunity to explain this project and thank the Public Works Department for their hard work.

The project is estimated to take a total of three years to complete. Roughly, one-third of the town's street signs will be budgeted each year. This year, the coverage included areas with the highest concentrated populations.

Many of the County Sheriff's Offices are now printing street signs. The "Street Sign Project" offers towns a substantial savings by putting inmates to work. Interested parties pay only the costs of materials and shipping charges. All other vendors contacted quoted the same work for at least $1,000 more.

Our signs came from Penobscot County. At the time of the order, aluminum for the signs had been back ordered for some time. We decided, to chance it, to save tax dollars. Next there was a shortage of inmates. To make a long story short, it took longer than expected to receive our shipment of 100 signs.

The signs came in at around the same point Jack Frost was making brief attempts to penetrate the ground. Our guys from the public works really had to hustle to beat ole Jack. It is obvious who won that battle. Kudos, on a job well done.

FROM THE

White Mountain National Forest

Have you always wanted to trek through the snowy woods, searching for a unique Christmas tree?

Well, this may be the year to try that adventure. Tree permits are being sold at the following White Mountain Forest Offices:

Ammonoosuc Ranger District, Trudeau Road, Bethlehem, NH, (603) 869-2626, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Androscoggin Ranger District, 300 Glen Road, Rt. 16, Gorham, NH, (603) 466-2713, 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, Saturday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Evans Notch Visitor Center, 18 Mayville Road, Bethel, Maine, 824-2134, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

Pemigewasset Ranger District, Rt. 175, Plymouth, NH, (603) 536-1310, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, Saturday, Dec. 7 and 14, 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. only.

Saco Ranger District, 22 Kancamagus Highway, Conway, NH, (603) 447-5448, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., seven days a week.

Supervisor's Office, 719 Main Street, Lanconia, NH, (603) 528-8721, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Wild trees cut on the National Forests won't look much like the ones grown on tree farms and sold on lots. "The trees tend to be irregular and less full, each with a look of its own," says Information Assistant Judith Phillips-Hill.

You should be prepared for winter weather, including icy roads and snow. Bring along chains, a shovel, and other winter emergency gear. A White Mountain National Forest map color-coded to show land ownership, is also a good idea. Maps are available wherever you buy your permit for a fee of $4.

Fir trees remain the most popular Christmas tree, but any other small conifer may fit your picture of what a holiday tree should be. A pine tree with longer soft needles, or a hemlock with small cones still attached to the branches might start a new holiday tradition.

There are a few common-sense rules you do have to follow while obtaining your tree. For example, you can't top a larger tree, or cut a tree and then discard it for another one you might find more desirable. Do not select a tree in or near campgrounds, picnic areas, or within 100 feet of state highways, and Christmas tree cutting is prohibited in the Hubbard Brook and Bartlett Experimental Forest areas. Chainsaws are not permitted, you must use hand tools to cut Christmas trees. Ideally, trees should be cut as close to the ground as possible.

Once home, keep the tree outside in a bucket of water until you are ready to set it up. Then trim another inch or two off the bottom of the trunk before putting the tree in its stand. Be sure to check the water level often; it is not uncommon for cut trees to take up a quart or more of water each day.

Don't hesitate to ask questions when you stop in to purchase your tag - the folks behind the counter are there to help you create a memorable holiday.

Post Office

an office on the Sunday River Road was a better option, because there would be more postal traffic.

The current office averages about two customers a day, with hours of 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., according to postmistress Crystal Lake. It has no postal boxes rented to customers, but does serve as an intermediary office for delivery to 80 roadside mailboxes.

Brooks was asked last week by the Citizen what prompted the change of plans.

He said that Post Office operations manager Michael O'Leary felt the Newry office "should be where the action is."

Brooks also said that building a new office in Newry would solve two problems -- providing a larger space for Newry operations and fitting the Bethel office into a smaller space.

The USPS initial plan for a 4,000-square-foot Bethel Post Office has been scaled back to 3,500 feet, largely because of space restrictions at the current post office site.

Newry selectman Steve Wight said in addition to a Sunday River office seeing more traffic, he believed that alleviating postal traffic in a scaled-down Bethel Post Office "would be the reason it would make sense to build a Post Office in Newry," he said.

But Postal Service spokesman Michael Doyle said Monday the Newry proposal is not a result of the situation in Bethel.

He said a new location in Newry would allow a carrier to work out of that office, and would allow the town to comply with the E-911 philosophy of having physical addresses correspond with postal addresses.

Norman Milliard, Bethel postmaster, also did not see a cause-and-effect relationship in the plans for the two towns.

A QUIET CORNER--The current Newry post office, located on Newry Corner, gets about two customers a day. Postmistress Crystal Lake is shown here in the 10-by-10-foot office. (Photo by Alison Aloisio)

"I think there are two separate issues going on at the same time, but they are intertwined," he said.

Milliard said there are currently approximately 133 mail deliveries to Newry out of his office. Sunday River Ski Resort has a post office box address in Bethel and picks up its mail from that office.

The resort -- and anyone else in Newry -- would still have the option of getting mail from a Bethel office box address after the Newry facility is built.

"That would be a corporate decision (on Sunday River's part)," said Milliard.

Other reaction

Lake believes it makes sense to move Newry's post office to the Sunday River Road.

"That's where the revenue is," she said.

At least some Newry residents agree with Lake.

Karlene Bachelder and Mary Tripp, who live in the Bear River area of Newry, don't do their business at the Newry Corner Office.

Tripp said moving the office wouldn't make a difference to her.

"I wouldn't resent moving it to Sunday River. They have a lot of mail coming and going from there," she said.

high profile national advertisers, are located in Newry but currently have Bethel addresses.

Having Bethel positioned so prominently in Sunday River/ASC's mailings and marketing efforts has had spin-off benefits for the Bethel business community, in the view of Robin Zinchuk, executive director of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce.

Name recognition is a key ingredient in marketing a recreational product, and Sunday River alone puts out between three and four million pieces of mail a year -- all reinforcing the connection between Bethel and skiing.

But that may now change.

Les Otten, owner of Sunday River and president of ASC, said that if a new post office was built in the Sunday River Valley, he would certainly consider switching the company's mailing address.

"After all," he said, "we are located in Newry."

But, he said, such a switch would have an negative impact effect on Bethel's marketing efforts.

Plan grant

two dozen voted against the grant. Don Feeney, a member at the time of the Planning Board, led the opposition to the grant.

In a handout circulated prior to that meeting, Feeney argued that if Bethel accepted the state money, it had committed itself to zoning.

But if the town went ahead on its own to develop a new plan, without state aid, he said, "then Bethel's comprehensive plan does not have to address zoning."

Feeney also addressed the meeting directly, noting that the Planning Board already had a steering committee preparing to revise the 1986 comprehensive plan. A new plan, he said, was scheduled to be completed and adopted by 1996 -- without state help.

"We can shape our own future or have to accept state direction," Feeney concluded. "I think we can solve all our problems from the bottom up."

But now, with 1996 quickly drawing to a close, and with little progress evident in the development of a new plan, Feeney has changed his mind about a volunteer committee being able to handle the job.

He has stressed that he is still opposed to zoning, but he now believes the job of developing a new plan -- especially of gathering the necessary data -- is too much for the committee to handle on its own.

Others have also changed their views on the grant. "I voted against it the last time, but I certainly won't this time," said Barbara Brown, who now serves on the Comprehensive Plan Committee.

Feelings on the town Planning Board have also changed. In 1993 the board split 3-3 on the question of whether to even put the grant decision to voters. This year the board has voted unanimously to recommend that the town accept the money.

The Comprehensive Plan Committee, once 22 members strong, is now down to 10 people.

And the task ahead of them is "not something we can do without more help," said chairman Ken Bohr.

Reggie Brown, chairman of the Planning Board, agreed. "They've gone about as far as they can go," he told the town selectmen recently.

If voters approve the grant, the expenses involved in the work the committee has already put into the plan would be used to reduce the amount of the town match.

"Given the amount of work you have already performed, you probably have a lot of expenses that can be applied toward the match," said Eric Carson, of the State Planning Office, at a recent hearing.

Carson noted that if voters accept the grant, the town and state will in effect enter into a contract calling for the town to develop a product: an updated comprehensive plan.

The contract does not require that Bethel's plan be consistent with the state's Growth Management Act, or that voters eventually adopt the comprehensive plan.

Board recommendations

As voted above, the town Planning Board has unanimously endorsed the grant. So has the Bethel Budget Committee. The Board of Selectmen split on the issue, with Dutch Dresser, Ruth Grover and John Thurston recommending approval, and Bob Chadbourne and Rick Whitney recommending against approval.

Parkway light

Voters will also decide Monday whether to pay an estimated $15 a month for a streetlight at the intersection of the Parkway and Route 2.

The Budget Committee unanimously recommended a yes vote. Four of the selectmen agreed. Rick Whitney was opposed.

Lavalette

pected to fill in temporarily on Tuesday evenings.

Selectmen were expected to act on Lavalette's letter and discuss the next step regarding town management at their regular meeting last night (Tuesday), Swan said.

He hopes the town will eventually seek either a full-time town manager or an administrative assistant to replace Lavalette.

As a selectman, Swan said, "I don't want a full-time job here. It (having a manager) has lessened the load on us tremendously."

The town went to the town manager form of government just prior to Lavalette's hiring.

Ray Seames, a member of a study committee that recommended the town manager form of government, said he still favors having a town manager.

"Everyone I've talked with is pleased with what it's done for the town. The office is open more hours, and there are more services open to people," he said.

Seames also said the atmosphere in the office was very friendly and helpful. "I've never heard a complaint about her (Lavalette)," he said.

Gould X-C trails widened

Gould has also substantially completed a cross-country trail widening project on its own trails, located on the Grover Hill Road, according to Jerome.

The school might also eventually build more trails on additional Grover Hill property acquired in a bequest from Elizabeth Park Mason, he said.

SENIORS DINNER

Area senior citizens are invited to attend the Bethel Rotary Club's Annual Senior Citizen Christmas Dinner on Tuesday, Dec. 17, at the Mundt-Allen American Legion Post on Vernon Street in Bethel.

Dinner will be provided and served from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. by Rotarians. Students from the Crescent Park Elementary School will sing Christmas carols, and Rotarians will also provide every senior citizen with a gift, among all the fixings and trimmings of the holidays.

Those seniors needing a ride to the dinner, or are unable to physically attend and would like a dinner delivered, please contact either Irene McGrew, 824-3020, or Dan Hart, 824-3217.

Plant grant

If the projected SSDC income does not materialize, sewer system users (not taxpayers as a whole) would be responsible for paying off the loan.

In the unlikely event the town receives no SSDC income whatever over the course of the loan, present customers could expect a monthly increase of approximately 20 percent in their bills, according to an estimate prepared by Town Manager Madeleine Henley. For most residential customers, that would amount to $10 a quarter, Henley said.

Capacity lags, problems linger

The upgrade project has two primary objectives: to increase the capacity of the plant by roughly a third, and to correct ongoing operational problems.

The plant, currently licensed for 300,000 gallons per day (gpd), is already operating near (and often beyond) the limit of its capacity.

According to an evaluation conducted by the town's engineering consultant, the average daily flow through the plant is 241,000 gpd, but by the year 2015 that flow will increase by nearly 100,000 gpd.

Hall that increase would come from Bethel Station (at full build-out, half from other commercial and residential construction.

The operational problems at the 24-year-old plant have been chronic. In the late 1980s it was performing so poorly that it was effectively treating only one third of its licensed limit of effluent -- that meant that whenever more than 100,000 gallons a day of sewage went through the plant, much of it ended up being poured, untreated, into the Androscoggin River.

The situation became so bad that in August 1988 the state Department of Environmental Protection imposed a moratorium on any new hook-ups to the Bethel system.

That moratorium (which lasted for 18 months) along with a hefty fine, finally led the sewer commissioners (selectmen) to take action. The town spent $860,000 in initial repairs to the treatment plant, then spent another $3.5 million (the bulk of it from grants) on a multi-year project to remove inflow and infiltration from the drain lines carrying waste into the plant.

That brought the town into general compliance with the DEP discharge requirements, but the initial work at the treatment plant was a stopgap measure, not a permanent fix to the plant's problems.

Now voters are being asked to approve that permanent fix.

The problems at the plant include hydraulic deficiencies, clarifiers that are uncovered (reducing their efficiency), an aeration basin that appears to be leaking, inadequate screening of incoming sewage, and no grit removal.

The plant also lacks an emergency generator, as is required by law.

In addition, the plant is limited in the amount of septage it can receive from off-system residents. Most are currently forced to go the more expensive route of land applications.

The upgrade would increase the plant's septage capacity to the point where it could handle all that Bethel is projected to produce.

Board recommendations

The Board of Selectmen have recommended unanimously that voters approve the treatment-plant loan. Selectman Rick Whitney expressed concern regarding the possible effect on user fees, especially if the projected development does not take place, but he eventually voted to recommend approval of the grant.

Six members of the Budget Committee voted to recommend approval. A seventh member, Dick Douglass was opposed.

Woodcarving demonstration

The Northern Forest Heritage Park will feature the third of four lecture series events for the Sur bois, Franco-American Woodcarvers exhibit this Wednesday, Dec. 11, at 7 p.m. at the Crown Vantage Training Center, North Main Street, Berlin, with a demonstration and talk by local woodcarver Bob Morin.

The program, entitled "The Franco-American Woodcarver: an artist's demonstration," will give a firsthand look at woodcarving and the impact Morin has made in the world of this special art form.

A lifelong resident of Berlin, Morin started woodcarving as a young marine, serving his country at sea during World War II. To help make his off-duty hours pass by, Morin began carving wooden figures. He has continued to carve ever since and, over the years, he has become a well-recognized artist, fashioning many different pieces.

Using only a knife, Morin carves his wooden figures from white pine. He does his own detail work, painting the figures himself.

Morin and his son, David, run a family shoe store in Berlin. An added attraction for customers of the Morins is the display of many of Bob's hand-carved figures, which appear throughout the store.

Wednesday evening's program will give the public the opportunity to visit with this talented artisan, and observe his mastery of woodcarving. This unique demonstration will also include accompanying remarks from Morin, featuring historical and personal anecdotes.

Lecture series events for the Sur bois exhibit at the Northern Forest Heritage Park are free and open to the public, and are supported in part by a grant from the New Hampshire State Council on the Arts and the National Endowment for the Arts. The exhibit, which includes the works of 42 artists, including Morin, will continue to be on display at the Heritage Park through Jan. 15. For more information, call 603-752-7202.

Winter snow arrived one day this last week. All that day a thin mist hovered in the air, growing thicker overhead until it blotted out the gray - white spots. Closely shimmering, the sun finally shown through, making it seem like a huge dome in the distance.

The trees, bowed their heads and the stiff grasses lodged against one another.

Everyone hoped it wouldn't rain, but it soon did. We awoke that morning minus the snow and had green and brown lawns again.

Spring, again, in the air. So begins our Maine winter.

I was surprised and pleased with a visit from Gerald Stevens one evening last week. He lives in Kentucky.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Curtis of Farmington also visited me.

All fan-'es gathered for a happy Thanksgiving. I was with the Holt family and had a nice day.

Pay and I spent Tuesday shopping. Leonas took us.

Congratulations to Emery and Cleo Ryerson who are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary Dec. 21. Cleo and Emery were married at West Paris at their parents' home. Walter and Evelyn Appleby, Bob Heath and the late Helen Heath were their attendants. The immediate family will be gathering on Dec. 14th to celebrate the occasion. Their children are Craig, Duane, Perry and Troy Ryerson. They have seven grandchildren and some great-grandchildren. The family would like anyone who wishes to send cards to their home at 44 Perkins Valley Road, Bryant Pond, ME, 04219, to wish them well. If anyone would like to stop by for a visit, give them a call first and they will glad to see you.

On Dec. 6, Cleo Ryerson celebrated her 70th birthday. Her family, including her children, Craig and Jane, Duane and Lisa, Perry and Anna, Troy and David and Carol Beleskis also her brother and sisters and spouses, Pete and Laurene Appleby, Maude Alice and Erlon Hadley, and Betty and Ray Estabrook. They all took her to the Village Inn Restaurant in Auburn for a surprise supper.

Cleo is one of my favorite people. She may be 70 years young but she still works 3 or 4 days a week and looks much younger. I hope she has a wonderful birthday and many, many more.

Dec. 21 is the first day of winter and where is the snow? Not too many years ago we snowmobiled 14 miles to camp at Wilson's Mills in deep snow for a complete Thanksgiving meal and overnight stay. What fun it was and what a change in the overall weather. Is it global warming?

There are many pretty Christmas lights up already around the area.

We're in the Christmas spirit. We have added Christmas songs to our school-wide opening exercises. The chorus has performed at Ledgeview Nursing Home. The entire school attended the excellent concert at OHHS.

If you haven't already done so, mark Dec. 18 on your calendar. It's our annual Christmas Concert, 6:30 p.m. in the gym. The snow date is Dec. 19. Admission is free, but there will be a 50/50 raffle and a last chance to buy a ticket on the Christmas dinner basket. Both are to benefit the music projects we are working on -- a keyboard and a new curtain.

Classroom parties will be held on the 19th with Dec. 20 as a snow date. Dec. 20 is the last day before a two-week vacation.

The letters my class wrote via Operation Dear Abby have already been delivered in Seoul, South Korea. William Makley received a very appreciated and informative letter from a young MP whose home is in New Jersey. Three Korean coins and an MP armband were included. The rest of us are now eagerly awaiting replies to our letters.

All classes are working on a craft project for Christmas giving. Several classes are studying cultures and customs around the world and are learning about Hanukkah and Kwanzaa. My students are memorizing "A Visit from St. Nicholas," by Clement Clarke Moore.

We are hoping to meet our goal of $100 for Christmas for Kids by accepting bottles, cans and money donations. We hope to do this by Dec. 13.

We are continuing with regular classroom work. December is a busy month.

'LETTERS HOME'

"Letters Home," a holiday celebration of the ending of WWII, will be presented by the Telstar High School Chorus, Dec. 11, 7 p.m., at Telstar Auditorium. There is no admission charge.

Guess what I got for my Christmas present, a set of candles! Karlene Bachelder, Gil Seeley, Bea Lowell and Olive Anderson, members of the Newry Bowling Gang, were at the Oxford Lanes in Rumford one day last week. On the overall scores, Gil was high on both the singles and triples. Of the Righties, Bea was high on both the singles and triples. Gil had four Happy Birthday to Nancy Wight. I hope the whole year through is just as nice as it can be in every way for you.

Briefly, at Christmas, play and make good cheers, for Christmas comes but once a year. For little children everywhere, a joyous season still we make. We bring our precious gifts to them, and even the child Jesus sake.

West Paris by Russell Yates
Howdy friends, we are having a beautiful Tuesday morning, but it is on the cool side.

Last Monday, Peggy accompanied sister Laura as she had to travel to Portland for a doctor's appointment. It snowed some, but they had no problems.

Peggy went to her doctor's office early Tuesday morning to have a fasting blood test. It rained much of the day and was cold enough so that it froze onto the trees and power lines. The lights blinked a little Tuesday evening and went off to stay about 9:30 p.m.

The electricity came back on Thursday morning at about 5:15 a.m. After breakfast, at my niece's request, I mixed up a batch of yeast rolls and later in the forenoon, we traveled to West Bethel to have Thanksgiving dinner with the Emerson Merrill family. We took the rolls and other goodies to help with the dinner and there sure was plenty of food. Rusty Merrill was home, when we got there, then Jim and Mary Merrill with their two cute daughters joined us for dinner.

Friday afternoon found us going downtown to get our weekly supply of groceries.

Saturday forenoon, we went downtown to watch the Christmas Parade.

Sister Peggy and Doc Merrill from South Paris attended the dance at West Paris Grange Hall Saturday evening.

It was rainy but mild weather on Sunday. Doc Merrill was up to have dinner with us and stayed for a visit before returning home.

There will be a dance at West Paris Grange Hall on Dec. 14 with music by the Richard Felt Orchestra.

REBEL CONSTRUCTION CO.—Members of Tim O'Connor's building construction class at Telstar High School recently constructed a wood storage building for The Matterhorn restaurant in Bethel. The students learned basic framing, roofing and floor-laying skills during the three-week project. O'Connor's classes take on such projects from time to time, with the materials purchased by the person or business making the request. Shown here are (from left): Jon McLean, Thomas Roshto, Neil Phelps and O'Connor. Student Jason Berry also helped out.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

A large group of Legionnaires and Auxiliary members turned out for the lighting of the Christmas trees on the grounds of the Post Home on Thursday, Dec. 5. Guests came from Phillips, Bethel and Mechanic Falls. Special guest of the Auxiliary was Marilyn Taylor, Second District president.

A joint meeting of Post and Unit was opened by Unit President Martha Stowell, after which Evanna Davis was called upon to read the names of the purchasers of bulbs and those whom they were honoring or remembering. As chairman of the project, Mrs. Davis remarked that it was the largest number of bulbs purchased in the four years since the program was started. Donations have already been made to the VA facility at Togus for their Christmas programs, to the Western Maine Veterans Home in South Paris and gifts have been purchased for veterans at Ledgeview Nursing Home and for three from the Bethel, Locke Mills, Woodstock area who are residents of the WMVH.

The assembly then moved outdoors where the Rev. Roland Lord said a prayer at the site of the trees honoring Fannie Cummings and Vera Cross. Red and blue lights came on, with two white ones in remembrance of MIAs of the Vietnam War, John Brooks and Carl Churchill. At the corner of the parking lot where the tree in memory of Past Department President Rena Howe is located, the Rev. Lord again offered prayer, after which that tree's lights were turned on.

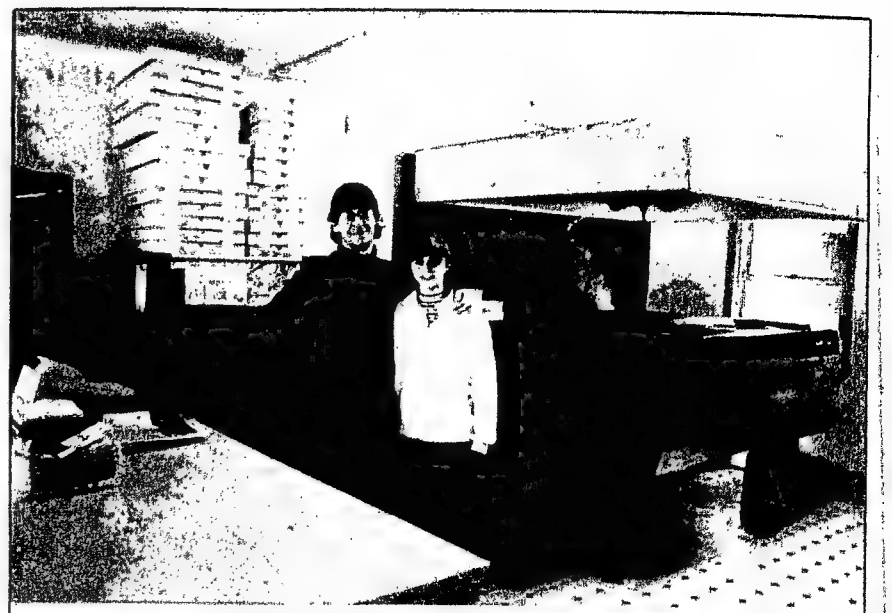

Bulbs may still be purchased until the end of December and the lights will remain on until Four Chaplains Sunday in February.

Refreshments of coffee, punch, chips and cookies were served, after which Post and Unit members went to their separate meetings. Kathleen McAllister volunteered to fill in for the remainder of the year as sergeant at arms and was so designated.

A roast pork dinner will be served to members and their families on Dec. 12, at 6 p.m., when the annual Christmas Party will be held. There will be entertainment and a visit from St. Nick. If there are any planning to attend who have not yet made their intentions known, they are urged to do so right away so that there will be sufficient food and gifts prepared. In case of really bad weather the snow date for this event will be Dec. 19.

Evanna Davis, adviser for the Junior Legion Auxiliary, announced that plans are for the Juniors to have a New Year's Party for the residents of the Western Maine Veterans Home on the afternoon of Dec. 31. There will be the usual artsy hats, noise makers, etc.

Unless something occurs which requires an extra meeting, plans are for one meeting per month for December, January and February. The January and February meetings will be on the 16th and 20th, respectively.

LATE-NIGHT SNACKERS TAKE HEART—Finish Line Pizza, located across from Telstar High School, opened for business recently. Partners Keith Blackard and Sarah Hebert cook — and deliver — pizza until 1 or 2 a.m., depending on the day of the week. The delivery area is anywhere within a 10-minute driving radius of the shop, and includes Sunday River and Mt. Abram ski areas, West Bethel and Bryant Pond Village. "We make hand-tossed dough, high quality pizza," said Blackard. Blackard and Hebert are shown here in front of the pizza oven.

WINDY VALLEYS SNOWMOBILE CLUB

On Dec. 3, the club held its annual Christmas potluck supper and exchange of gifts. Nineteen members were present. After supper and Santa's arrival, a brief business meeting was held.

The club is still receiving gifts to help with the expense of the new suspension bridge, which was featured in the Citizen several weeks ago. The next meeting will be on Tuesday, Jan. 7, of the new year.

During the weekend of Nov. 3, club members met at the bridge site to complete the work previously done in laying the foundation and procuring all supplies for the bridge. Letters of thanks have been sent to all the companies who aided this "super-structure." But, the women of the club who supplied food and hot beverages were left out during this thank-you time.

Under the organizing hand of Sandee Dunn, sandwiches were prepared along with desserts and hot beverages supplied by other women and carried to the site so that the men could continue their job without leaving the bridge area to eat. The weather cooperated and thus the task was made a bit easier.

At the November meeting it was unanimously voted to call the bridge "The Bear River Crossing." Also at this meeting a committee, under the guidance of Herb Kirtledge, was formed to begin work on the club house located on Bill Wright's property and on a section of trail which connects Maine with New Hampshire. The following week quite a group of men and women met to begin this project. It is now sided, insulated, has a roof and a spot for a good-sized picture window. Thanks were expressed to all who worked, observed, and enjoyed this project, which is just about complete.

ALL IN A DAY'S WORK—Following the weekend storm, Wayne Hakala takes a break from breaking up frozen clumps in the hopper of a Greenwood Highway Department plow truck. Some homes and businesses here lost power following the storm, but the area was by-and-large spared the widespread, prolonged outages that afflicted other parts of New England. # STATE: TRAPPED CANID MIGHT HAVE BEEN WOLF

In the wake of increased reports by the public of wolf sightings, as well as recent physical evidence of a possible wolf presence in Maine, the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife is encouraging the public to be aware and on the lookout for the possible presence of wolves in Maine.

Distinct from the smaller coyote, wolves are larger than 50 to 60 pounds, have large heads and muzzles, as well as massive chest and legs. Wolves are generally much darker than coyotes.

In early November, a Hancock County trapper turned over to DIF&W an 81-pound canid that he thought to be a large coyote. However, biologists who have examined the animal and collected tissue samples for DNA analysis, report that "We are not certain of the species; it appears to be either a dog-wolf hybrid or a wolf."

In an internal memorandum, wildlife biologist Craig McLaughlin reported that an examination of the carcass revealed that the adult male canid weighed 81.5 pounds and was four feet in length from nose to the base of its tail. McLaughlin further reported that colorization and other body measurements were consistent with other published measurements of eastern timber wolves. An absence of tatter buildup on the animal's teeth, which is common among hybrid wolves that are fed pet food, was noted in McLaughlin's report.

Pending the outcome of a DNA analysis by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, further study and tissue analysis is being conducted by DIF&W. Because wolf hybrids are commonly kept as pets in Maine and genetic distinctions between the hybrids and the eastern timber wolf are not easily made.

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

The Country Christmas in Bethel Day on Saturday was fun and successful from all reports, despite the snowy weather. Many people are to be thanked for their part in making the day great.

The "Taste of Bethel" luncheon was a big hit as always. Many thanks to the Bethel Inn & Country Club for donating their facilities and to Rhea Gibbs for her coordination of the event. A tremendous thanks to the following restaurants who were present to showcase their cuisine: Sunday River Brewing Company, L'Auberge Country Inn & Fine Dining; Rhea Lu's Chinese Restaurant; Bottle & Bag; Sudbury Inn; Cafe DiCocca; Homestead Bakery; Bethel Inn & Country Club; Mother's; Bethel Bagel & Deli; Pat's Pizza; Matterhorn Wood Fired Pizza & Pasta; and The Loft Restaurant & Pub.

In conjunction with the Taste of Bethel, the chamber held a "Theme Wreath Auction" coordinated by Carole Duplessis. Many thanks to her for her efforts and to the following businesses who donated the fabulous wreaths: Sunday River Brewing Company; Breau's; Northeast Bank; River View Resort; Mother's; Unicorn Flower Shop & Garden Center; Bethel Bagel & Deli; Carol Savage Photography; The Village Sampler; Books 'n' Things; Sunday River Inn & Cross Country Ski Center; Bib & Tucker; J.D. MacConaghy, Inc.; Bethel Inn & Country Club; Ames Place Bed & Breakfast; Matterhorn Wood Fired Pizza & Pasta; Pooh Corner Farm & Greenhouses. The wreaths were very well received by those who attended, and $457 was raised for the Christmas decoration fund. Thank you, all!

At 6 p.m., with beautiful falling snow to set the stage, Santa made an appearance on the Bethel Common and joined with dozens of people to light the community Christmas tree. Many thanks to our faithful Santa, George "Bub" Wight, who brought smiles to the faces of many children. Many thanks to Dave Preble of Preb's Pharmacy for donating the candy canes and to Denny Wheeler for bringing his lift to help decorate the tree with lights.

The final event of the day was a gathering at the Bethel Alliance Church with hot cocoa and cookies. Many thanks to Rick Mowery for helping to coordinate that event.

Everyone is invited to participate in the upcoming "Kid's Weekend" in all the Bethel area businesses. It will be kicked off on Friday evening with hayrides, sponsored by Northeast Bank, and many other activities all evening. Please see the full calendar list by the Christmas Shopping Guide, in this paper, for details.

The chamber Board of Directors will meet this Thursday for the regular monthly meeting. All businesses are invited to a "Morning Members Meeting" next Wednesday, Dec. 18, at 7:30 a.m. at Bethel Bagel & Deli. We will be planning a full calendar of business and fun events to be held in conjunction with the L.L. Bean Cross Country Ski Festival, on the weekend of Feb. 1 and 2. Everyone is welcomed to attend and be a part of this.

Members and friends are invited to the Chamber Holiday Social this Sunday, Dec. 15, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Sudbury Inn. Those wishing to make dinner reservations should call 824-2174.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words comfort and hope for your daily life.

What is the meaning of Advent? The dictionary gives the following: A coming or arrival. The first or second coming of Christ.

In Christian celebration it is the period of the four Sundays before Christmas day. Through French from L. Adventus-Advenore-Ad to Venire to Come.

Yes, advent is a time in which we should think about the coming of Christ. The first coming and the second.

The prophets of old had talked of it and prophesied of it years before it occurred. The first was given by God himself when conversing with Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden (Gen. 3:15).

Christ made his first coming long ago. We all know that story, I'm sure.

This is over and done for us now. He spent his pilgrimage here on Earth, was born and lived as mortal man, served his planned purpose, then suffered and died an agonizing death, rose from his tomb, then 40 days later ascended to heaven.

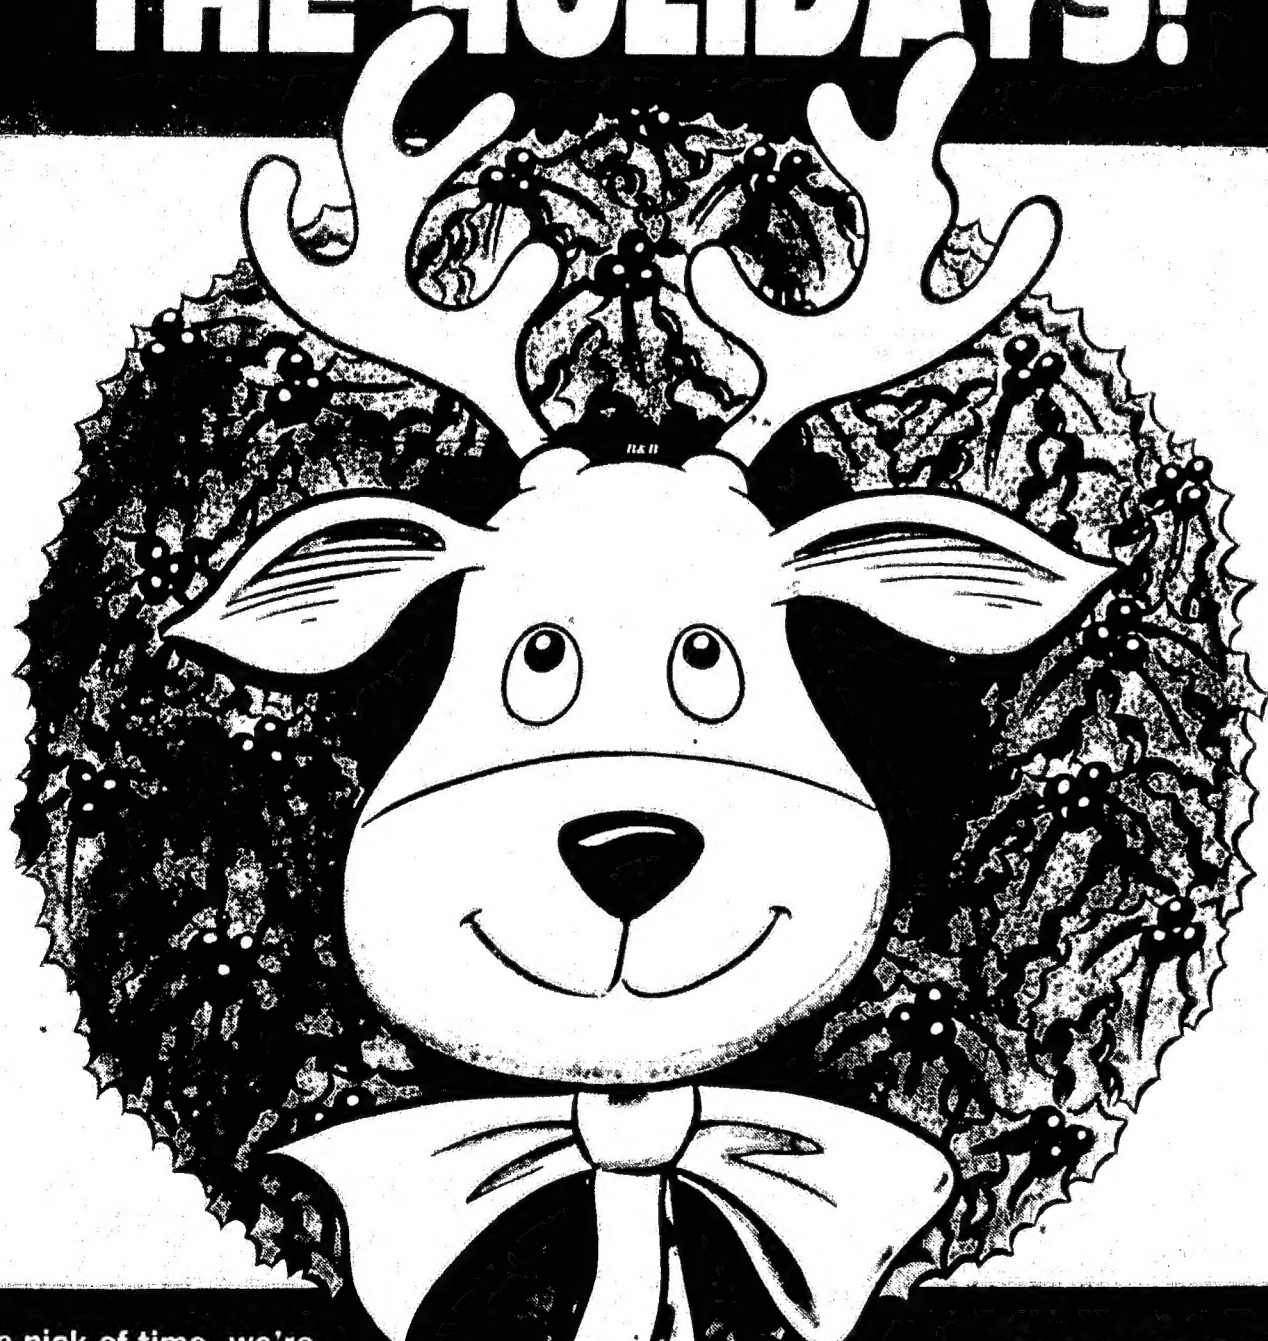

And now the world awaits his second coming.

We were not here to herald his first coming, but he was born into our world, but has he been born into our souls? Have we been born into his family?

Only when we accept Jesus Christ as the only begotten son of God, believe on his birth into this world as our Messiah, "the promised one," and follow his teachings, will we receive the salvation he has promised. We must be born again. "That which is born of the flesh is flesh. That which is born of the spirit, is spirit."

Pastor Rodney H. Hanscom
Newry Community Church
